

In 1918 there'll be just two kinds of people. Those who DID invest their savings in War Savings Stamps, and those who DIDN'T. To which class are YOU going to belong?

A Hair Growth On The Face

Under the arms or on the limbs is humiliating. The growth is unnecessary and can be removed in from two to three minutes if you will get a bottle of MANDO and use as directed. Sheer hoarseness and low-neck gowns are impossible with any hair blemish. Your druggist will supply you and refund the money if you are not satisfied. It's guaranteed. Sold by O'Donnell, People's, Riker, Christian, Ogram, and other good drug stores or write direct to Josephine Le Ferre Co., Phila., Pa.

U. S. EXPORTS DECREASED $362,000,000 IN 1918

A slight decrease in foreign trade for the fiscal year 1918, was today reported by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The total this year was $8,874,000,000, compared with $8,940,000,000 during 1917. Imports increased $287,000,000, while exports show a decrease of $362,000,000. Imports of gold in 1918 amounted to only $124,000,000, as compared with $977,000,000 in 1917.

Want to start something? Well, secure some war savings stamps; they will surely speed the war's successful subsidence.

ABANDONED BABE CRIES FOR MOTHER ALL THROUGH NIGHT

There is news today for the mother who abandoned her infant daughter in the triangle park at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue Monday night. There are two kinds of news.

The first is that "little darling" as the girl baby is dubbed by the nurses at Foundlings Hospital, will be reared under the direction of the Board of Children's Guardians at the country home of the Foundlings Hospital on Rockville road.

The second is that "little darling" was far from happy last night. Away from her own dear mother, the little tot seemed to sense that something altogether untoward was happening to her. So, all night long she cried, tossing about in her little white crib. Even the kindly attentions of the nurses failed to reassure her. "Little darling" was hailed into the juvenile court today for a hearing. It was officially decided to admit her to municipal protection. Of course, she can be adopted by any reputable person.

"We hope that the mother of the pretty infant will repent and reclaim her child," said Mrs. Miriam S. Solly, nurse in charge of the hospital, today. "In the meantime, our agents and the police are searching for the mother."

There is no clue to the identity of the baby. The tag, such as is used in hospitals to identify babies at birth, had been removed before the tot was left to the whims of fate or the tender mercy of municipal charity.

U-BOATS SEEKING TO TERRORIZE ALL OF ATLANTIC COAST

Naval experts today saw in recent German operations off the American coast an attempt to bring fear to every portion of the Atlantic coast. On the first expedition, operations were confined mainly to the New Jersey, Delaware, and Virginia coasts.

Now, with the sinking of vessels off New England, including a Gloucester fishing schooner off Maine, it becomes apparent to authorities that the German plan of campaign is to terrorize every portion of the Atlantic coast. And this may extend to the Pacific, in view of the reported presence of a raider in those waters.

As a process of terrorization it is held quite manifest that the effort has failed. As a process of inflicting military damage, the results to date have been small, though it is likely that German mines were responsible for the destruction of the cruiser San Diego.

Wide Range Favored. It would not surprise the experts were the present raider to strike southward attempt to bag boats off the coasts of Southern States, heretofore immune. It is a well-known feature of submarine tactics that the commander maneuvers over as wide an area as possible, both to prevent capture and to delude watchers into believing a large fleet of vessels is operating.

Especially careful watch is being observed to guard troop ships from harm, and the German men for France is going on regardless of the Teuton raid.

A special board is probing the San Diego affair, with evidence still pointing to mines strewn by a U-boat as responsible. At the same time, careful investigation is given the failure of the bombs dropped at a U-boat off Cape Cod to explode. One of the bombs is known to have gone off at its mark; another dropped nearer.

Explosion First Consideration. At present experiments are being made to insure explosion. This may lessen the safety of the operator, but it is held that explosion is absolutely essential. Tests of bombs on hand since the Cape Cod affair have shown only a small percentage of failures to detonate, and it is regarded as possible that inefficiency or tampering in manufacture caused these "wash-outs."

100,000 COLLEGE BOYS RESERVED FOR OFFICERS

The country has practically a reserve army of 100,000 for officers, to be held until needed, the War Department announced today, as a result of the committee on education's campaign to keep young men in college.

These young men, all of whom are between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one and have had military training, will attend the college men's series of officers' training camps.
